Notice to our Customers:

CBC is aware of the Bash vulnerability, dubbed "Shellshock," and is actively investigating and taking measures against the potential impact of this exploitation on GANZ products.

The following is the latest report from our ongoing investigation:

- PixelPro GXi cameras have the Bash/Shellshock vulnerability. To eliminate this vulnerability, you will need to update your camera with latest version of the firmware posted October 2014 or later on the GANZ Global web site.
- No other GANZ products has this vulnerability as of October 2014.

Please contact GANZ support in your local area if you have any questions.
